INTRODUCTION

This report identifies current certificates, issued by the competent authorities in the United States, required by Mexico in order to export food and agricultural products into Mexico.

This report was prepared by the Office of Agricultural Affairs of the USDA/Foreign Agricultural Service in Mexico City for U.S. exporters of domestic food and agricultural products. While every possible care was taken in the preparation of this report, information provided may not be completely accurate either because policies have changed since its preparation, or because clear and consistent information about these policies was not available. It is highly recommended that U.S. exporters verify the full set of import requirements with their foreign customers, who are normally best equipped to research such matters with local authorities, before any goods are shipped. FINAL IMPORT APPROVAL OF ANY PRODUCT IS SUBJECT TO THE IMPORTING COUNTRY'S RULES AND REGULATIONS AS INTERPRETED BY BORDER OFFICIALS AT THE TIME OF PRODUCT ENTRY.

SECTION II. PURPOSE OF EXPORT CERTIFICATES

Certificate of Free Sale

This document is issued by several state and federal government agencies and US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) certified laboratories. It assures the authorities of the importing country that these products comply with US requirements and are sold freely in the market of the country of origin. For example, the FDA or state health authorities issue these certificates for non-alcoholic goods. The US Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) issues US Free Sale Certificates for alcoholic beverages. In the case of poultry products, the USDA-FSIS export certificates of wholesomeness described above are accepted as an equivalent to the free sale certificates requested by Mexican authorities.

Meat and Poultry Export Certificate of Wholesomeness

The Meat and Poultry Export Certificate is issued by the Field Operation Staff of the Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS), USDA. This document certifies that the meat products included in the shipment are from animals that received both antemortem and postmortem inspection and were found sound and healthy. In the case of poultry and poultry products, it certifies that the birds were officially inspected and are wholesome and fit for human consumption. This document is issued to the exporter and also includes the general data of the consignee. Other data included in the format are district office, country of destination, folio number, plant number, city, type of facility, total marked net weight, total containers, and products as labeled with their individual market weight, number of packages and plant number. It is very important to put slaughter date, packing date and lot number in the remarks section. The name of the species on the product description line is also required (for example, hot dogs, beef, pork, or turkey). There are various sanitary statements required in the remarks section, as well. These are listed in the Hoja de Requisitos for any given product.

Phytosanitary Certificate-Plant Protection and Quarantine-PPQ

Mexico requires a certificate of inspection attesting to the specifications of the fruits and vegetables shipped. This certification is obtained by the US Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS). The phytosanitary certificate is issued by the Plant Protection and Quarantine (PPQ) office of APHIS to the producer and it certifies that the plants or plant products described in this document have been inspected according to appropriate procedures and are considered to be free from quarantine and other injurious pests.

Certificate of Origin

This is a trilaterally agreed upon form used by Canada, Mexico, and the United States to certify that goods qualify for the preferential tariff treatment accorded by NAFTA. The Certificate of Origin must be completed by the exporter. This document certifies that the listed products originated in the territory of the exporting company, and comply with the origin requirements specified for those goods in the North America Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). The US Customs Office of the Department of the Treasury will also issue certificates of origin for exporters.

SECTION III. SPECIFIC ATTESTATIONS REQUIRED

Specific attestations required for the export of meat, poultry and egg products to Mexico from the United States can be found at the FSIS website below:

Additional information, including specific requirements, on the export of plants and plant products to Mexico can be found at the APHIS website below:

SECTION IV. GOVERNMENT CERTIFICATES' LEGAL ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Certificate of Free Sale

A certificate of free sale is currently required by the Mexican Secretariat of Health on imported products including many processed and frozen foods. However, on July 25, 2007 Mexico's Secretariat of Agriculture posted notice of revisions to its Federal Animal Health Law with requirements for certificates of free sale for certain animal feeds including pet foods. Governing regulations for these products have yet to be published, but must be implemented within 12 months from the date of the Law's publication. Currently, exporters are required to present an original certificate of free sale upon entry of product.

Meat and Poultry Export Certificate of Wholesomeness

The document is not valid unless signed by an inspector of the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program, listing his name and the date. An original of the document is required and can be valid for multiple lots if the shipments enter at the same time at the port of entry.

Phytosanitary Certificate-Plant Protection and Quarantine-PPQ Certificate of Origin

An original of this document is required at Mexican Customs and can be valid for multiple lots if the shipments enter at the same time at the port of entry.
